It is the cause and symbol of more disease, death and destruction than the sign of the skull and cross bones was ever given credit for. Piratical gentlemen of the past confined their activities largely to the high seas. The fly, laden with the deadliest of germs, enters our homes, sleeps in our beds and wipes his feet in our food. But one generous whiff of Flyosan immediately ends his criminal career.

"GENERALS DIE IN BED."

The battle takes place, and we read of a hideous account of the deliberate shooting down of hundreds of German prisoners at the alleged instigation of superior officers as a revenge for the sinking of the Llandovery Castle. The battle in which it is alleged that the slaughter of defenceless German prisoners occurred proceeds.

The author, wounded, eventually leaves for England, and on his journey discovers that the Llandovery Castle is said to have contained munitions of war as well as wounded soldiers, and consequently draws conclusions distinctly unfavourable to his superior officers.

In concluding this letter I would again like to emphasize the fact that I am not in a position to say to what extent the author's statements can be relied upon, but to me it would appear that, whether true or not, such books as this should undergo an authoritative censorship before they are offered to the general public, for I cannot but regard this and other books which I have recently read as a slur on the ex-soldier and a grave deterrent to the peace of this and other countries which we all have in view.

Publisher's Reply.

Mr. Noel Douglas, in the next issue of the Sunday Times, replied to the Colonel's letter as follows:—
 As the publisher of "Generals Die In Bed," I feel that, the author being 6,000 miles away, I ought at once to reply to the main points of Colonel Harding's letter in your last issue.

First, as to the implications of the title. I imagine that Colonel Harding does not question the fact that for obvious and necessary reasons, generals are less likely to fall in the field than common soldiers. I do not, however, think that Mr. Harrison suggests anywhere that generals "did not play the game," if I interpret that phrase as meaning that they lacked courage. He has explained in the following words how the title came to his mind:—

Originally I planned to call the book "Soldier of Christ." When Koch died I got the idea for my present title. I read the newspaper account of how he was attended by nurses, and how his pillow was padded to make him comfortable, and how the house was hushed, and how the doctors issued bulletins. I remembered how Broadbent died in a shell-hole, how the hundreds of others had died in filth, neglected and lonely. I looked up from the paper and said to my wife, "Generals die in bed, but..." I didn't go further. I had the title for my book!

The correct implication seems to me to be merely that the common soldier has to endure the results of the commands of the generals.

When does Mr. Harrison suggest that his descriptions apply to any but his own unit? The book is clearly one of personal recollections from beginning to end. Colonel Harding asks why he has waited for twelve years before publishing such things. The reply is, that sections of the book have long since appeared in English, American, Austrian, German, and Russian journals. Doubtless in writing these sections together he amplifies his notes, but the delay was certainly not due to him.

One word more. When I read this book I felt, as Colonel Harding feels, that these were serious things, and I informed the author that I could only publish the book if I had his absolute guarantee of the truth of the looking of Arras and the massacre of Amiens in particular, and of the whole book in general. His reply was:—

I wish to go on record as saying that I, personally, took part in both of these events, and I am prepared to vouch for the truth of my statements after the book is published.

It remains for the public to judge between Colonel Harding and Mr. Harrison.

GANGSTERS KILL "SQUEALERS."

UNDERWORLD FEUD IN NEW YORK.

MURDER RECORD.

Underworld gangsters in New York last month created a record of murder for any American city, except Chicago, by killing five men, alleged to be "squealers," and seriously wounding another.

The police have no clues, but they believe a desperate underworld warfare has broken out in New York among Italian gunmen.

There have been a number of "squealings" to the police lately about New York's gangster-plots, and racketeer leaders are believed to have grown uneasy, and to have ordered their henchmen to enforce the law of silence by imposing death penalties on persons suspected of giving away information.

New secret methods of keeping racketeers and gunmen under surveillance have been recently adopted by New York police, against which the underworld is now trying to protect itself by terrorising "stool pigeons" or decoys, and by strict observance of Chicago's underworld "code of honour."

Under which there has been only one Chicago "squealer" in recent years.

Estate Dealer Shot.

The first man murdered was Paul Gallo, a real estate dealer and plumber, of Mulberry Street, in New York's underworld Bowery district.

He was shot when entering his West Street house early in the morning, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Albert Peppi.

A small sedan motor-car swung alongside the pavement while Gallo was putting his key in the door, and a man fired four shots, when Gallo fell mortally wounded.

Some hours afterwards Anthony Elterone and Salvatore Sazalino, two notorious managers of underworld "crap-shooting" and card games, were found dead together in Meeker Avenue, Brooklyn, with bullets in their bodies.

A sedan motor-car answering to the description of the one used in the murder of Gallo was seen at the spot a short time before the bodies were found, and the police believe that Elterone and Sazalino were "taken for a ride," or killed in the motor-car.

The bodies were thrown out, and all identification marks were removed, but the police identified them through finger prints, both having police records.

The fourth victim, Jack Valenti, was also "taken for a ride," but the police have only a vague description of the motor-car.

Fifth Victim.

Valenti's body was found dumped at the foot of a wall in the Unionville section of Brooklyn with four bullets in the head.

Christo de Oro, an underworld dealer in lottery tickets, was the fifth victim, being shot dead shortly after arriving in New York from Norfolk, Virginia.

Benjamin Schutte, with no address, whose affairs are not known, is hovering between life and death in Gouverneur Hospital after nearly becoming the sixth victim of New York's Sunday "murder racket."

He was visiting his wife at her father's apartment in Delancy Street, in the underworld station, and while whistling from the street to attract her attention in an upper window he was mysteriously shot in the neck with three bullets, and fell unconscious.

CUSTOMS FIND IN WASTE PAPER.

SPEAR THRUST REVEALS HIDDEN TOBACCO.

A sensational attempt to smuggle a large quantity of tobacco into England has been discovered by the Customs authorities at the West India Docks.

A consignment of waste paper which had arrived in a steamer from Antwerp had been unloaded and placed on one of the wharves to await Customs examination.

The paper was in pressed bales bound with wire. Waste paper does not, as a rule, excite the interest of Customs officials. It is not in itself a dutiable product.

Officials, however, thrust a long iron spear into one of the bales. The spear was withdrawn, and examination of the grooved end revealed signs of tobacco.

Orders were immediately given for the bale to be opened. In the centre was found a quantity of tobacco. The whole consignment of thirty-nine bales was then dealt with.

Every effort is being made by the Customs authorities to trace the consignees.

Speedy delivery of the bales had been requested, and a forry was actually waiting to load them.

ERA OF CONCRETE.

BUILDINGS SUITABLE TO A NEW AGE.

"MUMMIFIED PAST."

The annual dinner of the Architecture Club was held at the Savoy Hotel, London, last month, when Herr Mendelsohn, the famous Berlin architect, was the guest of honour. Mr. J. C. Squire, the first president of the club, took the chair.

Herr Mendelsohn said to build in concrete we pour in concrete instead of as formerly setting the single parts, bricks or stones, on top of each other.

We assemble a building like a machine. Mechanical accuracy replaces the skill of the craftsman and his individual subtleties. For our buildings we require elevators and spotting towers instead of scaffolding. We calculate exactly beforehand every detail of the construction. We organise on a large scale instead of being contented with empirical attempts and occasional lucky results.

This fundamental alteration in the methods of building is one of the causes of the change in ideas on architectural form. The success of the new material consequently gives the architect entirely new creative possibilities.

The second quality of the new materials, steel and concrete, that of being able to live a life of their own, to exist as absolutely independent materials, gives the lie to those architects who see in them only an additional means of realising dreams born of their excursions into a mummified past. They conceal their framework with heavy stones and Greek columns. They decorate their buildings so that the façades suggest refinement and the ecole des beaux arts. They destroy the lightness, the static clarity and simplicity of the supporting frame by building Cyclopean walls on the street front. They are ashamed of the naked construction, and cover it with garlands from the Italian palaces. They confuse nakedness with lack of clothes, purity, and inexperience.

Ideas Borrowed From the Past.

Can we really think that the Gothic architect was ashamed of the buttresses in his cathedral? Are not his buttresses obvious structural elements which he desired to keep visible, to make visible? Have we developed scientific systems, have we obtained control of earth and sea and sky simply in order to borrow ideas for our houses and our factories from past ages, to adhere slavishly to forms which have become empty formulae for us? We know that constructions in steel and reinforced concrete are very difficult to alter. That is why we consider the plan of the building as though it were a living being. We carefully avoid anything in the nature of a schematic design because each plan has its own life, its own purpose, its own conditions of movement and transport, its own unique form.

With our girders we span the greatest spaces. We light them by great glass surfaces between the elastic supports. By means of glass we get rid of inert matter and make the building light and transparent. We transfer the principles of bridge construction to building, and by means of cantilevers raise certain parts above the earth and cause them to float in the air.

Many buildings are already speaking this language clear and easily comprehended by those who have ears to hear. The development from the Crystal Palace in 1856, from the Eiffel Tower and the Galeries des Machines in Paris to the American grain elevators, the turbine rooms of the A.E.G. in Berlin, the Century Hall in Breslau, the hangar at Orly, and the new buildings in France, Holland, Germany and the whole world is astonishing and logical, and already sufficiently advanced to stimulate and fill us with enthusiasm. We cannot foretell what effects the light metals will have on the buildings of the future. But we already have a faint idea of the lightness of future constructions, of the elegance of their appearance, and of their harmony with the life that will surround them.

"A new era has begun. We cannot turn back. We have overcome the decadence of an uncreative civilisation with its eye fixed on the past, and we are again approaching a period of creative culture."

SHOULD AN HOTEL TELL?

DIVORCE-CASE QUESTION.

Mr. Justice Batson, in the Divorce Court last month commented on the refusal by hotel proprietors to supply information to solicitors in divorce suits.

The case was a petition by Mr. Bortram Dobbs, of Ebberton-terrace, Hyde Park, Leeds, who alleged misconduct between his wife, Margaret Jean Dobbs, and a man named Jackson, at the Hotel Russell, London.

Mr. Dobbs gave evidence. When the question of proving the misconduct arose Mr. Reginald A. Turgel, under-manager of the Hotel Russell, appeared on subpoena.

He said that, acting on the instructions of his directors, he and the staff had refused to supply information to Mr. Dobbs' solicitors about the visit of Jackson and Mrs. Dobbs to the hotel.

Mr. Justice Batson.—Do you not appreciate that if people realise that they can use your hotel without information being given about them, if necessary, they will frequent it?

Mr. Turgel said he did not appreciate that. The reason for refusing to give information was to prevent people using the hotel with the idea of evidence being provided afterwards.

Mr. Justice Batson.—Has it dawned on you that you are trying to obstruct the course of justice?

Mr. Turgel.—No. The Judge.—Do you really think that if you refuse to give information to solicitors in cases of this kind, you may have the whole of your hotel staff subpoenaed to give evidence, and perhaps kept here the whole day before their evidence is taken?

Mr. Turgel.—I do.

Is that what your managing director anticipates and hopes for?

Mr. Turgel.—No.

Mr. Justice Batson.—Tell your board that. And if the staff do not attend on subpoena, the powers of the Court will be used against them and they will be brought here. You can tell the hotel company that there may be serious trouble if this sort of thing goes on.

Mr. Dobbs was granted a decree nisi with costs, and £100 agreed damages against Jackson.

HUMOUR: ANCIENT AND MODERN.

"What's an optimist, Dad?"
"A man who buys grass seed and a lawn mower at the same time."

"How's your car running?"
"Not so good. I can't keep it throttled down."

"How's your wife?"
"She's about the same."

An English tourist went into an Aberdeen hotel one hot day and asked for a drink with a kick in it. They brought him a glass of water with a fly swimming on top.

Mrs. Newlyrich: "I want a terrestrial globe for my little boy."
Shopman: "Yes, madam. What size do you want it?"
Mrs. Newlyrich: "Oh, the natural size."

Teacher: "Now, Ruth, suppose your mother, and you, and the baby should go out to the park some afternoon, how many would that be?"
Ruth: "It would be two, and one to carry."

"Thank you for the presents, Auntie."
"Oh, they were nothing to thank me for."

"That's what I thought, but Mother told me to thank you all the same."

Gentleman: "What would you do with a nickel if I gave you one?"
Hobo (sarcastically): "Get a new suit, mister, an' some supper, an' a night's lodging, an' some breakfast an' dinner to-morrow."

Gentleman: "My good fellow, here's a quarter. Go and support yourself for the rest of your life."

They were visiting friends one evening. Presently their 3-year-old son became restless. The hostess, noticing this, gave him a soft rubber ball to play with.

During the course of his play the ball rolled under the davenport, and the little fellow crawled in after it. Presently the hostess asked him if he saw the ball. He replied: "No! I don't see anything but dirt."

First Fisherman: "The new fish-hook you invented looks very good, but does it catch fish?"
Second Ditto: "I'm glad you asked me that question—it's a point well-taken."

"Narah," said the Bostonian mother to the governess, "little Reginald seems disturbed about something. Have you been telling him stories about hobgoblins?"
"No, madam, I just told him I couldn't understand a word of Greek."

An army officer was showing his fair guests about the camp when a bugle sounded. "What's that for?" the fair one inquired.
"That's tattoo," the officer explained.

"Oh, I understand," she remarked. "I've often seen it on soldiers' arms, but I didn't know they had a special time for doing it."

After she had admitted the simple-looking young man each day for a week, the maid went indignantly to her mistress.

"I'm going to leave, ma'am," she began.
"Why, Mary? I can see no reason—"

"It's just this, ma'am. I can't bear that young man who calls on Miss Ethel."

"But he doesn't call to see you! What do you complain of?"
"Well, ma'am, the neighbours might think he does!"

A woman who had made a number of unsuccessful attempts to market a scenario she had written conceived the idea of changing her name and submitting it as an unreflected manuscript to one of the producers.

Five times, each time under a different name, it was returned with the same stereotyped, polite note. Undismayed, she sent it out again and was delighted to get a reply saying that the play could be used.

Her happiness suddenly vanished, however, when she read this postscript: "If you will let us hear the pages to pieces for a snow scene, we will be glad to use it."

SNAPSHOTS OF A MAN AND A MEMORANDUM PAD

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

(Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

GIRL'S PLEA FOR LOVER.

"HE WENT TO GAOL FOR MY THEFT."

"I beg you to allow me to speak." This request, by a young woman of good appearance, to Mr. Basil Watson, the North London magistrate, led to two dramatic situations in court last month.

The first was when she told how her lover in the dock had been sent to gaol as a result of her theft; and the second when the magistrate, remarking, "I think this man should have a chance, and also the woman, for coming forward as she has done," the man collapsed in a faint and was carried out of court.

William Edward Whitton, aged 38, a club steward, of Devonshire-road, Lambeth, was accused of stealing £50 from Highgate United Services Club.

He pleaded guilty to stealing £24 10s., and his plea was accepted.

Detective Tarr said that Whitton was convicted at Hastings in September 1926, and sentenced to three months' hard labour.

That was his first conviction. He had excellent references before that conviction, and had been in constant employment since until this affair happened.

He spoke several languages, and had just obtained a post as courier to a tourist agency and should have left with a Continental party that day.

When arrested he said he had hopes of earning sufficient money to repay the club whose money he had taken when he was in a hole. Whitton's conviction at Hastings was a mistake. I was not guilty.

It was then that the woman made her dramatic appeal.

"I had been living with Whitton," she said. "He befriended me knowing that I had seven convictions against me. It was while we were living at Hastings that I stole the bracelet and pawned it myself."

"The police said they wanted him, and he was arrested and sentenced. I was working with him at the club when the present affair happened."

The police said there was no reason to disbelieve this statement. Whitton had splendid references.

Mr. C. Reeves, secretary of the club, said there was no desire to press the charge.

Whitton was bound over in £10 to come up for judgment if called upon within 12 months.

THE SILVER SCREEN.

IN SUNNY HAVANA.

Rarely do we get a chance to see such a pictorially interesting film as "The Girl From Havana," now showing at the Queen's Theatre. The story covers a most picturesque field, from Los Angeles through the Panama Canal to Havana, and quite apart from the thrilling dramatic interest of the picture, the settings are most attractive.

The story relates to the daring theft of diamonds from a jeweller's shop, the escape of the thieves, and their pursuit by a detective of rather unusual type. Quite a good film, featuring Lola Lane and Paul Page.

Submarine Number in Natural Hue.

One of the biggest numbers in the William Fox Movietone "Follies of 1929," which comes to the Queen's Theatre on Wednesday, is filmed in colour. It is called "Under the Sea," and is a beautiful fantasy, based upon an ancient Japanese legend concerning a fisherman who was lured from his sweetheart's side by a Lorelei who promised to show him the wonders of a submarine grotto in return for his love. The scenic effects and costumes are gorgeous, and the addition of colour greatly enhances the entertainment.

"Roadhouse Nights" at the Central.

"Roadhouse Nights" is solid amusement from start to finish. It is essentially a comedy-thriller, of the highest type—that is, the thrills and laughs follow each other so swiftly that it is impossible to determine where one ends or the other begins. It is a historic picture, because it marks the film debut of one Jimmy Durante, the funniest "mug" comic the talking screen has ever produced. He is the leader of the trio Clayton, Jackson, and Durante, who act as performers in the roadhouse. Helen Morgan sings "blues" in her own inimitable manner. Charles Ruggles furnishes road after road with droll comedy, and Fred Kohler turns in his usual finished performance as the rum king.

are you to do?

Should you adopt the mispronun-ciation to spare the feelings of your acquaintance, or should you,
as naturally and casually as possible, give the word its accustomed sound?

This is one of the problems raised by Mr. Hugh Scott, in "Good Manners and Bad."

Mr. Scott admits that the position is difficult, but he adds that,
as it would be impossible to expect an entire company to speak of Pussini, "there would seem to be nothing for it but to let things take their natural course."

That "Open" Invitation.

The author condemns the growing modern habit of replying, "May I leave it open?" when an invitation is made.

When people make this reply,
they usually mean that they wish to retain the right to come if nothing more attractive has turned up in the meantime, "and this is, of course, a very unfair and one-sided arrangement from the standpoint of the person asking them."

Of British manners abroad Mr.

Scott is extremely critical. He refers to a French woman who had stayed in a French hotel on the Riviera for a fortnight, and had never once occupied an easy chair.

"All of them," she said, "had been invariably appropriated by the English guests, male and female,
who, in this instance, had adopted the expedient of engaging them for the evening by placing books and other articles on them before dinner."

"Outlet For Outlet."

And there are those tourists on the Continent who demand "rosbif" and "bifteck" all the way, refusing to consider "any kind of dish with which they have not been acquainted since childhood."

Should the "outlet for outlet"
rule still hold good? Is it seemly to accept hospitality for which no equivalent return can be made?

Mr. Scott suggests that it would be absurd for people of limited means to refuse invitations because they are unable to make a corresponding return, but he condemns those who accept invitations but who make no return, although well able to do so.

The author discusses many other fine shades of social conduct in his lively and entertaining book.

LOST WARATAH FOUND?

AIRMEN'S DISCOVERY ON A SUNKEN REEF.

"Two miles off Peddie, near the South African port of East London, a great ledge of rock runs out under the sea and on it lies a wrecked ship." "It is plainly visible on calm days, when the sunlight strikes the water at a certain angle."

These statements, which are apparently the clue to the existence of a lost ship, have been made by air pilots (says an Exchange message from Capetown) and may at last solve the mystery of the vanished steamer Waratah, whose disappearance is one of the strangest riddles of the sea.

The Waratah, a steamer of 10,000 tons, was on a voyage from Sydney to London with 400 passengers and crew.

She left Durban on July 28 1909, for Capetown, and on the following day was in company with the steamer Clan Macintyre.

But she never reached Capetown,
and from that day to this no trace of her has been found.

British warships, searched for her, and the steamer Sabine made an extended cruise for many weeks, but without result.

Many stories of floating bodies and wreckage seen by crews of ships off East London were current for months, and in December 1911

a fireboat with the name Waratah
on it was washed up on the west coast of New Zealand.

Many people advanced strange reasons for her disappearance, which was even said to be due to some supernatural agency, but it is generally thought that she capsized during a violent storm.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST,
SCIENTIST HONG KONG.

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday,
July 13.

The Golden Text was: "Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst." (John 6:35).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there,
and fish laid thereon, and bread.

Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon
Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs." (John 21:9, 13, 15).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science text-book,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Our baptism is a purification from all error. Our Eucharist is spiritual communion with the one God. Our bread,
"which cometh down from heaven,"
is Truth. Our cup is the cross.
Our wine the inspiration of Love,
the draught our Master drank and commended to his followers." (p.
35).

PHOSFERINE
quickly restores strength—protects the system against disease.

IN spite of my 64 years and a hard working life, I still am in active business, thanks to Phosferine. It has never failed to 'pull me round' when exhausted, more rapidly than anything I have tried. For toning nerves up and generally helping an invalid when run down and weak, I always consider Phosferine unequalled to restore strength and ensure a quick recovery. Just now with influenza about, and changeable weather, a dose now and again (even when not ailing) protects the system against attacks of disease. I may add that to a worker, subject to brain fog, like myself, your Phosferine Tablets act like a charm in recuperating the system. It is because Phosferine is what it claims to be—a genuine tonic for all 'run down'—that I recommend it." Mr. E. J. Frost, 39, Moulsham Street, Chelmsford, Eng.

FRANCE, GERMANY AND THE SAAR.

NEGOTIATIONS "BROKEN OFF.

DEMARCHÉ PRESENTED ON RHINELAND.

Paris, July 7.—The Franco-German negotiations concerning the future of the Saar district and its early reunion with the Reich have been suspended, states a joint communiqué just issued, admitting that "there exist grave differences of opinion regarding certain questions which both governments consider vital to their interests." The communiqué adds that both Governments will avail themselves of the suspension in order to review the questions at issue and to consider the advisability of resuming the negotiations in the coming autumn.

German Press Regrets.

Berlin, July 7.—The majority of the Press records the rupture of the Franco-German Saar negotiations with regret, while the organs of the Right, which had long expressed their doubts regarding the potency of the negotiations, profess to see in the present rupture fresh evidence for France's intransigence. It is generally believed that the present deadlock has arisen from the French demand for joint Franco-German ownership of the Saar mines, while the German delegation throughout the negotiations insisted upon the Reich exercising the option to repurchase the mines which were state property before they had to be ceded to France under the Versailles treaty until 1935. Simultaneously however the German delegates had indicated their willingness to guarantee France regular coal deliveries from these mines because they are indispensable for the iron industry in Lorraine.

A Difficult Position.

Political quarters, while hoping that a way will be found to smooth out these differences, admit that the task of reconciling the conflicting demands is far from easy and that, therefore, the present rupture might become definite in which case the status quo in the Saar district will have to continue until 1935 when the plebiscite provided for in the Versailles treaty will bring the final decision, the outcome of the plebiscite in favour of Germany being nowhere seriously doubted.

The negotiations, it will be remembered, began in November last following an agreement to that effect at the Hague conference when it was commonly believed that they would be confined to a fixation of the price Germany would have to pay for the repurchase of the mines and to a reasonable accord assuring the French iron industry in Lorraine the continuation of its coal supply from the Saar mines.

Political circles here also find it rather disappointing that the negotiations have come to naught just at the moment when their successful conclusion together with the liberation of the Rhineland would have strengthened the position of all those who are in favour of friendly relations with France.

The Rhineland Demarché.

Contrary to all expectations the French Ambassador at Berlin, M. de Marguerie, to-day undertook a demarché with Foreign Minister in connection with the anti-Separatist riots in the Rhineland which, the French Government holds, constitute a breach of the agreements reached at the Hague in connection with the Young Plan, a thesis which is disputed in German Government quarters where it is pointed out that the local authorities did everything possible to protect the adherents and leaders of the Separatist movement and that the attacks against them are being universally condemned in the German Press while the German Government merely undertook in the Hague agreement not to bring the Separatists before the Courts on a charge of high treason. Moreover it is understood that Foreign Minister Curtius pointed out to the French Ambassador that the wrath of the Rhineland population against the Separatists could psychologically be understood if it was remembered how much the population had to suffer in consequence of the attempts of those circles to destroy the French presence in the district.

The Berlin Press regards the French demarché as rather ill-advised, especially from the psychological point of view, inasmuch as many will come to the conclusion that France intends to continue her policy of assisting the enemies of the unity of the German Reich.

THE FEDERATION OF EUROPE.

ITALY'S "UNCOMPROMISING NEGATIVE.

Rome, July 7.—The Press publishes the full text of Italy's reply to the French Foreign Minister's memorandum proposing the creation of a Pan-European Federation, the original Italian note having been handed to the French Charge d'Affaires on Saturday last.

The Italian Government's reply though worded in conciliatory terms is uncompromisingly negative. It is divided into three parts whereof the first demands that all discriminations against the defeated nations be removed and that victors and vanquished as well as the big and small nations be accorded equal rights and be guaranteed their absolute independence and sovereignty.

Russia and Turkey.

Italy then proposes that both the Soviet Union and Turkey be invited to join the discussion since their non-involvement is incompatible with the professed aims of M. Briand's project.

The second part of the Note deals with the relations between the proposed Federation and the non-European countries as well as with the League of Nations, respectively, and emphasizes that it would be fatal if the idea of solidarity inspiring the League of Nations were sapped. Moreover, the Note continues, there exists the danger that the formation of a European block will result in the creation of other international groupings whereby the organic unity of the League of Nations would be destroyed.

Danger to League of Nations.

For these reasons Italy is opposed to M. Briand's proposal of forming an organization paralleling the League of Nations' division into an Assembly and a Council and suggests that all nations be given an equal voice and seat.

Finally the Note repudiates the French thesis that a European Federation must be based on a solution of the security problem and declares that the chief aim of such a federation must be identical with the League of Nations' security, which in M. Briand's scheme is mentioned neither directly nor indirectly but which, in the opinion of the Italian Government, must be the starting point for any effective attempt to achieve the moral cooperation of the nations of Europe.

FRANCO-ITALIAN NAVAL PLANS.

CONVERSATIONS TO BE RENEWED.

[UNITED PRESS.]

Paris, July 4.—M. de Beaumarchais, French Ambassador to Rome, had a long conference with M. Briand when, according to reports published in the Paris Press, the Minister instructed the envoy to inform the Italian Government that France was prepared to resume the naval conversations with Italy "the earlier the better."

It is also reported that the Ambassador will convey to Signor Mussolini the French Foreign Minister's opinion that before the naval negotiations are resumed it would be desirable to settle certain outstanding political issues such as the status of Italian citizens in Tunis and Italy's demands regarding the Libyan coast.

The Press welcomes this report and the prospects thus opened for an improvement of Franco-Italian relations especially in view of the fact that on several recent occasions it was quite positively stated that the naval negotiation had been shelved for the time being and with little hope for their early resumption.

KIDNAPPED FROM A PARLIAMENT.

SENSATIONAL OCCURRENCE
IN THE FINNISH HOUSE.

Helsingfors, July 5.—A sensational assault probably unprecedented in the history of parliaments occurred in the Finnish parliament to-day when four armed men whose identity is still unknown entered the House, seized the Communist deputies in their seats and removed them by force to waiting motor-cars. One of the raiders showed when entering the token of the police-chief's department.

Meanwhile a new Cabinet has been formed from representatives of the bourgeois parties with the well-known anti-Russian senator and former Regent of Finland Per

Mr. Procope as Foreign Minister. Extreme nervousness reigns among the population and especially the working-class of the capital as a massacre of the Communists and those suspected of Leftist leanings is feared when the Lapso bands enter the city on Monday.

But civilised men cannot live without dining."

Oscar Meredith.

He used to be rude about the cold joint and allude to it as "Ichabod" And poke the tomatoes about to find one that wasn't squashy, and leave the apple tart's pastry on his plate and talk about heavy handed cooks and...

Well you know how things used to be on Mondays... till you thought of that shattering retort, "All right, you buy me a Frigidaire then!"

Of course, he did in the end—and now Monday sees Ichabod metamorphosed into vol-au-vent, since cook's pastry has miraculously acquired a flaky lightness (only because he chills it in Frigidaire before popping it in the oven), and the salad always seems fresh, picked, it's so cool and crisp, and everybody wants to know the secret of your household marketing because they've "never eaten such tender steak, my dear" (which, of course, is due to Frigidaire again), and he swears Frigidaire would be worth twice its price if only for the difference it makes to beer, and...

we could go on for hours like this, but how about you having a Frigidaire of your own? The very latest models, fitted with Hydrator and Cold Control that produces frozen sweets, ice creams in a jiffy, can be installed in your kitchen for a very small sum. Fully automatic. Dead silent. K SHOES

How perfectly they fit!

And well they may! For by combining two fittings in one shoe—a 3 fitting heel—with a 4 fitting forepart, for instance—you get a shoe which hugs the ankle closely. This gives that final touch of elegance and fashion which goes with a slim ankle neatly and snugly housed, without sacrificing the comfort essential for the toes.

That is the secret of the famous K Plus fittings, which actually give extra comfort. The diagram shows what the Plus fitting is.

H.K. & S. BANK SPORTS.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN LONDON.

The annual athletic sports of the Hong Kong & Shanghai Bank were held on the Bank's ground at New Beckenham on the afternoon of June 14. Favoured by the finest of weather there was a good attendance of friends, and of the staff, in addition to those who were competitors in the several events. The ground was in excellent condition, and a moderate easterly breeze did not affect the times to any extent.

There was the usual spirit of camaraderie present which usually distinguishes the meeting. Tea was provided in the clubhouse, and added to the amenities of the afternoon. The company present included Lady Addis, Sir Newton Stubb, Mr. A. M. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. C. Jones, Mrs. Peachey, Sir James and Lady Stewart Lockhart, and Mr. W. Adams Oram.

Of the sports themselves, the usual keenness was displayed in all the competitions. The club champion on this occasion was G. S. Browne, with a score of 20 points, a feature of the afternoon's racing being his win of the open mile, which he took even more easily than he did the same event last year. Next in order were W. Riggs, 6 points, and H. R. McGilchrist, 6 points. The obstacle race, sack race, children's race and the messenger and waiter races were as popular as usual. The tug of war, won by the Home Staff, was keenly contested.

The band of the Queen's Westminster and Civil Service Rifles performed a selection of music under the conductorship of Mr. T. E. Coombs, during the afternoon. All concerned contributed to the success of the meeting, though of course the bulk of the work fell to Mr. R. W. Ives, the Hon. Treasurer and Secretary, who again was largely responsible for the way that all went through. The following are the results:—

440 Yards Handicap.—1, J. W. Clark; 2, R. J. Roberts.
Throwing the Cricket Ball.—1, McGilchrist; 2, Norton; distance, 86 yds. 1 in.

One Mile Scratch.—1, G. S. Browne; 2, F. G. L. Clarke; 3, R. L. McKissack; time, 4 min. 56 sec.

Presentation of Prizes.

At the conclusion of the events Sir Newton Stubb felicitously introduced Mrs. B. C. M. Johnston, who presented the prizes to the winners. Mrs. Johnston was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of flowers, made up in the Bank's colours of scarlet and white. After the ceremony on the invitation of Mr. Padfield, who proposed a vote of thanks, three hearty cheers were given to Mrs. Johnston, and a very enjoyable afternoon was brought to a conclusion. The officials responsible for the gathering were:—

Athletic Committee: A. Moncur (Chairman), C. Bennett, I. H. Bradford, Miss W. Hammond, C. S. Stevens, R. W. Ives, Miss W. Norman, Miss D. S. Snell, E. T. Turner, M. F. L. Haymes.

THIRD TEST MATCH.

"BRADMAN THE BRILLIANT BATSMAN."

TEST RECORDS SURPASSED: 46 BOUNDARIES.

ENGLAND LOSES FIVE WICKETS FOR 212 RUNS: HAMMOND BATTING STRONGLY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, July 11.

After the luncheon interval, Woodfull and Bradman continued Australia's innings, and both played good cricket, though Woodfull appeared to be playing very carefully.

The "Unbowable" Bowled.

Bradman's century before lunch equalled MacCartney's effort in 1923 and Victor Trumper's in 1902, and although the bowlers were being badly punished, Chapman ignored the possibilities of using Leyland, but kept Hammond on instead. This all-rounder eventually bowled the "unbowable" just as he had got his half-century after being at the wickets for two hours and three-quarters, the total then being 194 runs for 2 wickets. Woodfull played a watchful defensive game and was extremely careful throughout. He scored only four boundaries, this fact bearing on the hour in which he batted. Bradman, on the other hand, was batting freely, punishing every bowler alike with powerful drives; he sent his 200 up after batting for three hours and a half.

When Woodfull was out, Kippax came in to fill the breach, and almost at once settled down to play polished cricket; he got the runs at a fair rate with the result that when play was adjourned for tea he was 33 not out, while the dashing "Don" had collected 230, also not out. The score now stood at 305 for only two men out.

Bradman Thunderously Applauded.

The break did not seem to upset the batsmen at all, and when play was resumed, they batted happily together, the runs coming at a good rate. Then, amid thunderous applause, Bradman broke R. E. Foster's record for the highest individual score in Test matches (257), which the latter set up at Sydney in 1904, and together with Kippax he added 229 runs for the third wicket partnership, breaking the Australian record for this in matches against England. The previous best was 207 by Murdoch and Scott at the Oval in 1884.

An Expensive Drop.

Soon after Bradman was missed by Duckworth behind the sticks off Geary when he had collected 273 runs. Kippax, who had been taking no chances up to this point, offered a chance to Chapman who was fielding at backward point and was out. He scored an excellent 77 in exactly the same time as Woodfull took over his 50, and made six boundary hits in the process. The total at this stage was 423 for the loss of three wickets.

McCabe joined Bradman, who, in spite of a "life," continued to bat brilliantly, and when stumps were drawn the young New South Wales crack had passed the 300 mark by nine runs, while "Stan" had made a round dozen. "Mr. Extras" contributed nine runs to bring the total to 438 for 3 wickets.

Bradman had been batting for five hours and forty minutes and banged the ball to the ropes on no less than 42 occasions!

All Out for 555.

LONDON, July 12.

After putting up the magnificent score of 438 for 3 wickets, the Australians were all out for 555 runs.

A huge crowd scrambled into the ground in the hope of seeing "Don" Bradman, who completed his 2,000 runs for the season off the last ball sent down to him yesterday.

Larwood and Tate started the attack against the two overnight "not outs," and the pair batted steadily. The partnership, however, was not destined to last very long, for the score had only mounted to 491 when McCabe was bowled by Larwood. His share was 30. Richardson came in to partner "Don," but the newcomer popped up an easy catch to square leg and was caught by Larwood off Tate.

The score was now 494 for 5, and Oldfield joined Bradman only to see the terror of the English bowlers out to a brilliant catch by Duckworth, wide on the leg side, after 14 runs had been added. Bradman's total score was 334—the highest individual contribution in Test matches, and a record which will perhaps stand for a long time. His score included 46 boundaries.

The Tall Refuses to Wag.

Oldfield now had a Beckett as his partner, and when the score stood at 519 runs the former was caught by Hobbs, who ran in from "cover." The next man in was Wall, and with a Beckett he brought the score to 544, when the latter gave Chapman an easy catch at mid-off and was out for 29 runs. Grimmett came in for a merry knock and hit two sixes off Tyldesley in succession. However, when the score was at 565, Wall was beaten by one of Tyldesley's leg-breaks and was sent marching back to the pavilion. The last man, Hornibrook, came in, and almost immediately after he had scored a single, Grimmett was taken behind the wicket off Tyldesley for 24 runs. "Mr. Extras" contributed 14 to bring the total to 569.

England Loses Hobbs Early.

Faced with this big task, England started her innings with Hobbs and Sutcliffe, who did not appear in the least worried by the responsibility which rested on their shoulders. They were, however, very respectful to Grimmett's googlies and Hornibrook's inswingers, which gave them much trouble. Runs came slowly and at the luncheon interval Hobbs got 11, while Sutcliffe scored 6, the total then being 17 for no wickets.

When play was resumed, the batsmen were still very restrained, and when Hobbs was one short of thirty he gave a chance to a Beckett at forward short-leg, who brought off a brilliant catch, doing a somersault in the process.

Fifty-three runs for one wicket; then Hammond joined the Yorkshireman, and after a shaky start settled down to steady cricket. These two shaped well together for a time, when Sutcliffe, who had by this time settled down to give one of his best exhibitions, misjudged one of Grimmett's "spins" and gave a "dolly catch" to first slip and was easily held by Hornibrook. He scored 23 runs.

Enfin "Duleep," who played steady cricket from the start, and England's hopes began to rise when he and Hammond brought the score to the three-figure mark. At 120, however, the Sussex batsman played outside a good length inswinger from Hornibrook and had his balls removed. He made 35 runs and was batting nicely, square-cutting the ball to the ropes on five occasions.

Maurice Leyland filled the vacancy and, with Hammond, brought the score slowly but steadily to the 200 mark. Both men were now set and appeared to be seeing the ball very well, when Leyland mis-hit one of Wall's deliveries and was caught at third man by Kippax. The score board showed that four men were out for 206 runs, and Leyland's contribution stood at 44. He hit two sixes and three fours, and the partnership lasted 90 minutes.

Geary was next in, but was run out by a smart return from Wall before he had opened his account, and Duckworth came in to play out time, although he did not score. Hammond, batting strongly after an uncertain start, was undefeated for 61 runs at the close of play.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE UNREPENTANT "X."

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR.—So I am adjudged guilty of misquoting Mrs. Eddy's words, any offence—so far as I can gather from Mr. Adler's letter—is that I wrote the word "life" with a small letter instead of a capital.

This grievous misrepresentation makes it quite unnecessary for any Christian Scientist to take up my challenge to have his heart, lungs, or brain taken away in order to show that these things have nothing to do with life—beg pardon, Life. In other words, these vital organs have something to do with life, but not with Life.

Well, that is one point satisfactorily cleared up to Mr. Adler's satisfaction, but not to mine.

I hope, sir, you will allow me to say a few more words, not with any hope of shaking Mr. Adler's faith, but to make clear to your readers the danger of allowing Christian Science teaching to increase its influence by getting hold of the young people who are said to be disaffected with other religious faiths.

Mrs. Eddy says "if you discard all notions about disease arising from any circumstance, you will find that mortal mind, when instructed by Truth, yields to divine power which steers the body into health."

Now, if that means anything at all (which I doubt) it means that a man whose lungs have been eaten away by tubercular bacilli, or whose throat has been gripped by cancer, or whose heart is weakened by valvular disease, or whose limbs are distorted and crippled by arthritis, or whose arteriosclerotic kidneys show chronic Bright's disease, or whose eyes are afflicted with cataract, can be "steered into health" when instructed by Truth (with a capital T).

Well, if that is so, why is (or was) Mrs. Eddy so greatly concerned about a broken bone? The simple or compound fracture of a limb is not really a very serious matter and, in most cases, will eventually adjust itself without any skilled attention. Yet Mrs. Eddy thinks broken or dislocated bones are best left to surgeons for adjustment, just as she permits a Christian Scientist whose pains are so violent that he cannot persuade himself he is under an "erring illusion" of the corporeal senses to have an injection made by a doctor. Then "when the belief of pain" is lulled, he can go ahead with his self-delusion.

But there is very good reason why broken bones should not be neglected. Unless the skilled hand of the medical man is employed, the severed parts may probably will join badly, and leave the victim deformed if not crippled.

Such an unfortunate would be a poor walking advertisement for Mrs. Eddy. Our corporeal senses may be erring illusions, but we can distinguish the unlucky cripple from his upright fellows, just as we can see the distinction between honesty and humbug.—Yours, etc.,

Hong Kong, July 12.

FOREIGN COMPANIES' REGISTRATION.

COUNCIL INSISTS ON RECIPROCITY.

In connection with the registration of foreign companies in China, the State Council in Nanking in accordance with a resolution of the Central Political Council, has issued identical orders to the Executive and Legislative Yuan instructing that, unless otherwise provided for by laws or ordinances, registration of foreign companies in China shall henceforth be granted strictly in accordance with the principle of reciprocity. In other words, registration shall be granted only to companies of such foreign nationalities whose Governments also permit Chinese companies of a like nature to be registered.

The resolution of the Central Political Council was adopted in pursuance of a recommendation from Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labour, pointing out that while some restriction is thus imposed upon the registration of companies of certain foreign nationalities, such limitations are not only expedient but equitable.

In this connection, it will be noted that according to the law now in force, a foreign company, unless it is registered with the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labour, cannot enjoy the status of "juridic" person, and therefore cannot sue in court.

SHANGHAI GAMBLING PROPENSITIES.

NANKING GOVT AND GREY-HOUND RACING.

Owing to renewed representations from influential quarters regarding the impoverishment of large sections of the Chinese population in Shanghai due to incessant gambling at greyhound races and other resorts, the Nanking Government is considering the possibility of utilizing the legitimate powers provided under the new Special District Court procedure to arrest and prosecute Chinese who indulge in gambling contrary to law.

Previous attempts made last year by the Chinese authorities to secure the suppression of gambling at the dog races through Consular and Municipal channels having failed, it is now proposed to ignore these bodies and deal directly with the Chinese who gamble or operate the gambling establishments at the dog races.

It is felt in responsible circles that something must be done to curb this gambling evil which, according to investigations, is seriously affecting Chinese economic life in Shanghai, especially during the present period of auto industrial and trade depression.

Summary measures are likely to be enforced when the results of the investigations are submitted to the Government organs concerned.

KWANGTUNG NEEDS MONEY.HEAVY MONTHLY MILITARY EXPENDITURE.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 13.—Owing to the continued civil warfare, the Provincial Treasury of Kwangtung is well-nigh depleted. The monthly military expenditures still amount to over $4,200,000, or more than 80 per cent. of the total revenue of the province. So heavy has been the drain in this direction that very little money is left for administrative and educational purposes. Thus the teachers of the Government secondary and normal schools in Toishan district have not been paid for the past five months, in spite of their present strike and repeated representations to the Magistracy. Salaries for the teaching staff of the Sun Yat Sen University are also two and a half months in arrears.

Mr. Fan Ki Mo, Commissioner of Finance, in an interview with local Pressmen this morning, said that the Central Government had overdrawn more than $25,000,000 from the Provincial Treasury for military expenses. All this Nanking promised to pay back when conditions have become settled, but no date has been fixed. When the finances were in the most stringent state following the expedition into Hunan, the Provincial Council wired to Nanking asking it to send down $500,000 at once to relieve the situation. This Nanking did, but upon the condition that the money would be paid back before the end of July. The dispatch of the two crack divisions of Kwangtung, the 60th Division under Commander Tsui Ting Kai and the 81st Division under Commander Chiang Kwong Nai, to the Yangtze Valley to participate in the campaign against the Yen-Peng coalition cost a great deal of money, according to the Commissioner of Finance. Moreover, the money has to be paid in national dollars, which means more has to be sent. Mr. Fan hopes that now now Nanking will support these two Kwangtung divisions, thus relieving some of the financial anxieties of the Canton Government.

CHEN MING SHU AMONG THE LI-CHIS.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 13.—Contrary to earlier reports, General Chen Ming Shu is not going to Nanking to confer with Marshal Chiang Kai Shek over certain matters of vital importance in the near future.

With Kwangtung's best troops taking an active part in the war against Yen Hsi Shan and Feng Yu Hsiang in Hoan and Shantung, General Chen Ming Shu did think it expedient to take a trip up North. The Nanking Marshal, however, wired him not to come, and to remain in Canton and take charge of affairs. To this the General complied and had his trip cancelled.

The General is now enjoying his holidays at Law Kong, where the most delicious lichis grow. He is expected to be back in Canton by to-morrow.

LATE LUI WOON IM.FUNERAL TO-MORROW.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 13.—The last obsequies for General Lui Woon Im, Governor of Kwangsi and Vice-Commander of the 8th Military Route, who was assassinated during the latter part of the last month in the New Asia Hotel, were held to-day at the College of Medicine of the Sun Yat Sen University on Pei Tze Road.

The whole city appears to be in mourning. Every official of importance and practically all the public organisations in the city paid their last tributes to the martyred Governor of Kwangsi. Several big matsheds, were erected in the compound of the Medical College, where the remains of the late General are housed. The walls are literally covered with Chinese scrolls, epitaphs and couplets, and around the coffin hundreds of flower wreaths are laid.

At first it was decided to send the remains of the late General back to Kwangsi, his native province, for interment.

A spot on Yellow Flower Hill, the final resting place of the 72 National Heroes, right close to the grave of General Tang Chung Yuen, has been selected as the burial ground for the late General. The funeral will take place on Tuesday.

TAIAN RECAPTURED.REPORTED NANKING SUCCESS.*CANTONESE PLANES TO BOMB KWEILIN.

According to information gathered by Cantonese scouting aeroplanes, the main body of the Kwangsi rebels has arrived at Kweilin, the former provincial capital of Kwangsi in the north-eastern part of the Province. They are being pursued by Cantonese troops which have arrived at Chuanchow on the border of Kwangsi.

A number of bombing aeroplanes will shortly be sent to bombard Kweilin, and circulars have been already distributed among the populace there by aeroplanes advising them to leave the city. Communication between Wuchow, Kweilin and Nanning has been held up in consequence of the military activities.

There has not been any fresh development in the North recently. While the situation on the Lungshai and the Peiping-Hankow Railways remains quiet, a decisive battle is expected to be fought in Shantung along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway line in the near future.

Reinforcements are being rushed to this sector from the Lungshai front by both sides. A section of the Kuominchun has been also dispatched to co-operate with the Shansi troops. The Nanking troops on this front are said to number over 100,000.

Latest reports state that the Shansi forces which were threatening to attack Yenchow where the Nanking troops are concentrating, were driven back on the 10th inst. when the Nanking troops launched a general counter-attack.

On Saturday last, another counter-attack was launched with the result that Taian was recaptured by the Nanking troops. It is reported that half of the division under General Chen Cheng of the Nanking troops has been annihilated.

ABUSED HIS TRUST. HARBOUR MASTER'S "BOY" CONVICTED.

After having stolen two sums of money, Tong Ming, a house "boy," later called at the office of his master, the Hon. Commander G. F. Hole, R.N. (retired), to ask for forgiveness. He had, however, to face Mr. Lindell at the Central Magistracy on charges of stealing two sums of money, $60 and $139.

It was explained that the sum of $60 was entrusted to the defendant by Commander Hole to pay certain bills. As regards the second charge, it was stated that the servant stole a wallet containing $139, during his master's absence.

Addressing the Magistrate, Commander Hole said that it was with mixed feelings that he was prosecuting the defendant. The "boy" was the son of another servant, who had earned promotion. The man occupied a position of trust in his house and he had abused the trust, explained Commander Hole.

In reply to his Worship, Commander Hole said that on July 1, which was a public holiday, he went to Stanley. The defendant then saw him on a rickshaw. On returning home at 9 p.m., he was told by the No. 2 "boy" that the accused had left the house at about 2.30 p.m. and had not returned. On going upstairs to dress, Commander Hole found his wallet missing. He was of the opinion that the defendant must have taken the money soon after he had left the house.

The Magistrate passed sentences of three months' hard labour on both charges.

EUROPEAN MISSING.GOVERNMENT SERVANT'S STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

The absence of Mr. Edward Larmour, of the Crown Lands Department of the P.W.D., since Monday last from his office and his residence at Repulse Bay Hotel was mentioned in a report made to the Police during the week-end. Beyond the fact that he was last seen in a white suit, nothing further is known.

The following is the official description of the missing man: 42; 5 feet 11 inches in height; heavy built; full face; clean shaven; hair black and brushed back. Mr. Edward Larmour arrived in the Colony as Assistant Land Surveyor on November 19, 1914. He was acting Principal Land Surveyor in 1924, and in 1929 he was appointed Second Assistant Superintendent of Crown Lands.

KOWLOON UNION CHURCH.MR. J. H. JOHNSTON TO LEAVE NEXT YEAR.

The following statement was issued yesterday by the Rev. J. Horace Johnston from the pulpit at the Union Church, Kowloon:—

The management committee of this church, realizing that my appointment terminates in a few months' time, raised the question whether I would contemplate a renewal of the appointment, if an invitation were forthcoming. It certainly is prudent to come to an understanding as early as possible, and I appreciated the invitation to consider the possibility of a further term of service, here. After giving the question most serious thought, my reply was conveyed to the committee at its meeting last Wednesday.

While regretting very much to sever my connection with the congregation and dissolve the many ties that bind me to the Colony (a regret which is fully shared by my wife) nevertheless I do not feel that I should be justified in remaining for a further term. The specific work which I came to do is very nearly accomplished, for I was induced to come to Kowloon by the prospect of opening fresh ground and building a new church in this locality. My task has taken longer than I expected and the new buildings are still uncompleted. The pleasure, which I have so long anticipated of entering into the more extensive premises and enjoying the increased comforts and facilities, is destined to be short-lived.

All the same I do wish to carry out my whole task, and I have offered to remain until Midsummer, 1931, practically another year from now. This will enable me to see the various activities of the church comfortably established in the new quarters, and the manse made into a home. Moreover, it will enable me to see the $10,000 scheme completed and the endowment fund secured.

By that time also the new minister at Kennedy Road will, if all goes well, have had nine months in the Colony and be settled into his charge. Furthermore, at Midsummer, the supply of the pulpit will be comparatively easy, and an arrangement might be made similar to that which is at present so happily made in Hong Kong, and thus all would be ready for the arrival of my successor at the usual season.

These are the reasons which I gave for my offer to extend my term, if health permits, until Midsummer of next year, and the offer was gratefully accepted by the Committee. It was further agreed that the congregation should be officially informed of the step which had been taken and the understanding reached. Accordingly this statement was first submitted to the honorary secretary of the committee and approved, and has now been read on his Communion, Sunday morning, and will also appear in the Press for the information of a wider public.

There is always an element of sadness in contemplating the close of a ministry, but this is far too soon to dwell upon that aspect of the matter. There are still many months before us, and a great deal may be achieved in the time that remains; let us rather make the most of our opportunities while they last, for mutual fellowship and united effort, that this may be the crowning year of our labours together.

EUROPEAN DIES IN CUBICLE.DEATH DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES.

The dead body of an unknown European male was found in the front cubicle of No. 123, Canton Road, top floor, last evening.

When the Police were summoned to the premises it was at first feared that the unfortunate man might have been the victim of foul play.

Dr. Smalley, of Kowloon Hospital, was called in, and he made an examination of the body.

On a statement made by Dr. Smalley that death was due to natural causes, the body was removed to the Kowloon mortuary.

PORTUGUESE LADY PASSES AWAY.MRS. P. L. M. BARROS.

The Portuguese community lost a popular member when Mrs. P. L. M. Barros, wife of Mr. J. C. Barros of the General Post Office, passed away at her residence at 363, Nathan Road, Kowloon, on Friday afternoon.

For the past ten weeks Mrs. Barros had been confined to her bed, but her condition was not alarming until a week or so ago, when, it is understood, she sank rapidly. She was 46 years of age.

Of a genial disposition, the late Mrs. Barros will be mourned by many friends, whose sympathy will do doubt be extended to her husband, Mr. Barros, and their three sons and three daughters.

BAG-SNATCHER SENTENCED CHINESE CONGRATULATED BY MAGISTRATE.

A Chinese was brought before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday on a charge of snatching a hand-bag, containing $4.50, from Miss Rose Wong, of 929, Nathan Road.

Complainant stated that at about 8.30 p.m. on July 11, while walking with her cousin near Chung Sha Street, the defendant who came from behind, suddenly caught hold of her neck and snatched her hand-bag. She called for help, and two gentlemen who were standing nearby gave chase and caught defendant near Sham Shui Po.

The witness then told the man of twelve months' hard labour and 24 strokes.

In complimenting the two gentlemen, Messrs. Ip Wah Kwai and Cheung Sui Yuen for their plucky act, his Worship said:—"I compliment you on the way you behaved in catching the snatcher. You did a good piece of work."

HONG KONG, JULY 14, 1930.

HONG KONG AND FIJI.

RESIDENTS in Hong Kong of all nationalities will be greatly interested to know that, in the opinion of Dr. DRUMMOND SHIELDS, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, the vote is the simplest and most effective method of redressing injustices.

He regretted the restricted franchise existing in those colonies which are governed by elected bodies, but whether he said anything about those colonies which have not even a restricted franchise Reuter does not tell us. It is quite likely that the Colonial Under-Secretary does not know that as far back as 1891 a petition was presented to Parliament suggesting that the majority of the Legislative Council of Hong Kong be composed of elected representatives of British nationality.

In 1910 another petition, prepared by Sir HENRY POLLOCK, was sent to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, again suggesting that the principle of election be substituted for nomination in regard to Unofficial Members of the Executive and Legislative Councils. Mr. BONAR LAW's reply was merely to say he saw no reason for departing from the decision reached by Lord RIBOT twenty years previously. In 1919 further representations along similar lines were made to London by the Constitutional Reform Association, and after two years Mr. WINSTON CHURCHILL (who was then at the Colonial Office) in reply to a question in the House of Commons, announced that it had been decided to make no change in the system existing in Hong Kong.

It is clear, then, that Dr. SHIELDS, in stressing the great importance of the vote as a means of voicing public opinion in the Colonies, is not advocating anything altogether new to this Colony. At intervals during the last forty years demands have been made for a change in the system of local administration which would have at least borne some resemblance to representative government. For some reason, however, the idea has persisted in official quarters that this demand is merely the outcome of what a former Governor described as an agitation on the part of "a few unquiet spirits." But for the fact that Sir WILLIAM ROBINSON said not have JEREMIAH "what was to happen in 1917, he would probably have scored even more heavily by dubbing the agitators "Bolsheviks," of whom one of the first was the Hon. Mr. F. P. JOHNSON (then in charge of the local office of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson). "What we really want," said Mr. JOHNSON, himself a member of the Legislative Council, "is that the Council should adequately represent the intelligent public opinion of the Colony." No doubt it will be argued that that want is fully met by the present constitution of the Legislative Council, but it is not met in the manner which Dr. SHIELDS describes as the simplest and most effective method of redressing injustices.

Not only among the European community does dissatisfaction exist regarding the Early Victorian administrative machinery operative in this Colony. Among the Chinese there is a strong feeling that nomination by the Governor of Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council is not an ideal—nor even a fair—way of giving Chinese public opinion an opportunity of expressing itself in deliberations upon local affairs. In Kenya Colony the Arabs have an elected member on the Legislative Council, the Indians have five, and the Europeans eleven—though the permanent official majority is carefully guaranteed. In Sierra Leone there are nominated and elected unofficial members of the Legislative Council, and among the former are three native chiefs! Bermuda has an elected House of Assembly in addition to a Legislative Council, and in Jamaica Sir R. E. STUBBS has the assistance of a partially elected Legislative Council, and women have the vote. In the Fiji Islands there is a Legislative Council which includes seven members elected by persons of European descent, and two nominated Fijian members, from which it appears that in Fiji there is a simpler and more effective method of redressing injustices than exists in Hong Kong. We wonder whether Dr. DRUMMOND SHIELDS is aware of this remarkable fact!

AN ENEMY OF KINGS.

THE celebration to-day by our French friends of the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille is an appropriate occasion for recalling a remarkable incident of that stormy period. When the leaders of the revolution were agitating for the execution of the King, THOMAS PAINE made a passionate appeal to the Convention that the ruler's life be spared. "My hatred and abhorrence of monarchy are sufficiently known," he said. "They originate in principles of reason and conviction, not except with life can they ever be extirpated, but my compassion for the unfortunate, whether friend or enemy, is equally lively and sincere."

PAINE was in favour of Louis CAPET being tried, because it was necessary to afford proofs to the world of the perfidy, corruption, and abomination of the monarchical system, but he pointed out that the American people regarded Louis as their benefactor, a fact which afforded the French nation "a blessed occasion of extricating itself from the yoke of kings without defiling itself with the impurities of their blood." THOMAS PAINE's idea was that Louis and his family should be banished, that the ex-King should be kept in prison until peace was restored, and then be sent to the United States, where, "far removed from the miseries and crimes of royalty, he may learn, from the constant aspect of public prosperity, that the true system of government consists not in kings but in fair, equal, and honorable representation."

MARAT angrily protested that PAINE was not competent to vote on the question, seeing that his religious principles were opposed to the death penalty, but the effect of the appeal for mercy showed itself when, out of 721 voters at the National Convention, only 387 declared themselves in favour of death unconditionally. Thus encouraged, PAINE made yet another appeal, again angrily interrupted by MARAT, who declared that the interpreter was not giving the Convention the real views of the speaker. "My anxiety for the cause of France," declared PAINE, "has become for the moment concern for her honour," but it was in vain that he pleaded for the man "who helped my much beloved America to break her chains." Louis was executed the day after his sentence was pronounced, and THOMAS PAINE retired from the National Convention. Whether the course of history would have been changed had Louis been allowed to settle in the United States—then scarcely united—is a question some may care to debate after dinner.

FRENCH POLICY IN AFRICA.

THE consummation of France's exhibition of her Mediterranean power will take place in Paris to-day, when the independent French-Algerian army will "parade" in full panoply on the national holiday of the Third Republic.

The occasion for this display of the African forces will be the horticultural colonial exhibition at Vincennes, which will attempt to impress insular Parisians with the fact that France is the second greatest colonial Power in the world. By sending President DOUMERGUE and a large retinue of Parliamentarians to North Africa, France made it clear to political observers that she must be reckoned with henceforth as a world Power of the first order. The Algerian centenary is merely a pictorial disguise under which the new France is assuming the rôle in Africa of ancient Rome, which was started by MUSSOLINI in Tripoli three years ago.

It is reported in semi-official quarters that the result of the Algerian inspection by President DOUMERGUE and the Cabinet will be the unification of the North African colonies and protectorates, Morocco, Algeria and Tunis, and that the political exigencies of the Moroccan and Tunisian protectorates will be worked out diplomatically with the Sultan of Morocco and the Bey of Tunis.

French colonial psychology, as revealed during the visit of President DOUMERGUE, shows that where once France's colonial ambitions turned westward they are now following the path of the sun. France will make every effort to join her North African possessions with the Sudan and Niger, and with the mandated colonies of the League of Nations, inherited from the World War, form a powerful African federation.

Public opinion in the Turkish capital is greatly incensed over the assistance which Persia allegedly accords the rebellious Kurd tribes in the Arrarat district where bloody fighting continues. It is announced that the Turkish Ambassador at Teheran has presented to the Persian Government a Note giving full details of the charges against its officials on the frontier to prevent the Kurd rebels from crossing into Persian territory. Private advices indicate that the rebels number over ten thousand, all well armed and equipped and that they have inflicted heavy casualties on the Turkish troops. NEW GOVERNMENT IN PEIPING.*MANIFESTO TO BE ISSUED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, July 12.

The inaugural ceremony of the enlarged Plenary Session of the Central Party Headquarters of the Kuomintang is to be held on Sunday afternoon in Huijintang, in the Forbidden City.

Quo Tai Chi, Hu Tsung To, Yeh Chi and other prominent members are expected to arrive in time to participate.

It is expected that following the ceremony a manifesto will be issued, signed by the participants, and this will be followed by the setting up of a Government as soon as possible.

Summary of the Manifesto.

PEIPING, July 13.

The Plenary Session of the Central Party Headquarters of the Kuomintang, held this afternoon, was attended by 15 members of the Central Executive Council.

Wang Fa Chen, the oldest member of the Kuomintang, was present, and he was elected Chairman of the session.

The meeting bowed three times before Sun Yat Sen's portrait, and Wang Fa Chen read Sun Yat Sen's Will, and then he read a Manifesto, which the meeting signed, some signing on behalf of prominent members, who were not present.

Quo Tai Chi signed on behalf of Wang Ching Wei, Chao Pi Lin for Yen Hsi Shan, and Huang Shou Ku for Feng Yu Hsiang.

The Manifesto, from its own point of view, gives the history of the Party since Sun Yat Sen's death, stating that the Central Executive Council had striven to exterminate Communism and to reorganise and unify the country, but unexpectedly Chiang Kai Shek had destroyed unification, and he had dominated the party by acts which were illegal. Consequently, he had lost all national rights abroad and internally he had greatly harmed the masses.

In 1929, Chiang Kai Shek had called illegally a "Third Plenary Session," through which he had started military expeditions to exterminate other elements. Yen Hsi Shan and Feng Yu Hsiang more than once had advised him to desist, but in vain, so that the Committee from all the provinces had decided to fight under the guidance of the party to oust Chiang Kai Shek without compromise.

Those signing the Manifesto had decided that it declares to organise a conference under the Central Party Headquarters and to prepare for the convocation of a conference of delegates representing the whole nation, the aim of which is the establishing of the foundations of the whole country on a sure basis.

The tram should have crossed by the No. 2 section of the cantilever bridge, one section of which was raised at the time of the accident.

It is believed that the driver, owing to a fog at the time, did not see that the bridge was open, and he ran the tram straight into the river.

Three of the passengers who were sitting on the rear platform of the tram escaped.

Most of the victims were labourers who were returning from work.

NAVAL PACT
DOCUMENTS.*PRES. HOOVER DECLINES PUBLICATION.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, July 12.

President Hoover replied to the Senate declining to allow publication of the so-called "secret documents," relating to the Naval Pact, on the ground of public policy.

He points out that one of his duties is to maintain amicable relations with other nations. He cannot, therefore, allow himself to become guilty of a breach of trust by a betrayal of confidences, and emphasises that the documents are open for Senators for a confidential perusal.

The refusal was provoked by the introduction of a resolution sponsored by Senator Norris which may be made the basis of a strenuous attempt to get the Treaty rejected, or its consideration postponed until the autumn. The resolution asks for a reassurance that there is no secret agreement which will in any way affect the stipulations of the Treaty.

Mr. Hoover's above-mentioned reply was received in the Senate while Senator Hale was arguing that the British, by the terms of the Treaty, had America "hamstrung" and "hogtied," and would keep her so as long as armaments were the order of the day.

STRONG MESSAGE BY PRESIDENT.

[UNITED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, July 7.

A substantial quorum was present when the Senate convened today in special session to deal with the London Naval Limitation Treaty, and fears of treaty proponents that special steps might be necessary to secure a quorum were set at rest.

Vice-President Charles Curtis, in his capacity as presiding officer of the Senate, at once appointed Senators James Watson of Indiana and Thomas Walsh of Montana as a committee to inform President Hoover, in time-honoured fashion, of the fact that the Senate was in session and ready to receive such communication as he might desire to convey.

This brought the long-anticipated London Treaty message, prepared during the past few days, at the Presidential camp on the Hapidan, and embodying the Administration's official attitude on its most important international undertaking to date.

A Backward Step.

Failure on the part of the Senate to ratify the London Treaty, President Hoover declared in his message, would plunge the world backwards in its present progress toward peace among the nations.

The President strongly urged that speedy action toward approval of the pact be taken by the Senate. He said that the treaty marked an important step toward disarmament and world peace. This treaty, he continued, had been discussed since last summer, so that there could be no necessity for lengthy debate upon a document concerning which everyone must have made up his mind.

"Every solitary fact which affects judgment upon this treaty is known," declared President Hoover, "and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States."

The President said that he naturally would expect opposition from those groups objecting to the maintenance of unrestricted military strength as an American objective.

"Indeed," he continued, "we find the same type of minds in Great Britain and Japan in parallel opposition to this treaty."

"Nevertheless, I am convinced that an overwhelming majority of

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, July 12.

It is understood that the Government have decided to send a Trade Delegation to South Africa under the chairmanship of Lord Kirkley, ex-President of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom.

A statement on the subject will be made in reply to a private notice of a question in the House of Commons on Monday.

AMERICA CUP.BRITISH CHALLENGER SAILS THIS WEEK.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, July 11.

Sir Thomas Lipton's "Shamrock the Fifth," the British challenger for the America Cup, will leave for America at the end of next week.

The yacht is at present at Gosport undergoing the modifications necessary before a racing yacht can safely face the rigours of the Atlantic crossing.

The first of the seven races for the Cup is fixed for September 13.

The American people are opposed to the conception of these groups.

During the later portion of the President's message, he reviewed the treaty and declared that it afforded protection to American interests and ideals.

He said that the question was not one of a few cruises, but of whether it was to be this treaty or no treaty. Unrestricted naval competition is the only alternative to the London Treaty, he asserted.

Confidential Documents.

After a somewhat acrimonious interchange between Senators representing the supporters and opponents of the London Naval Limitation Treaty, the Senate adjourned today with the intention of considering an important anti-Administration resolution to-morrow.

This resolution was introduced by Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee immediately after the full text of the treaty had been read at the conclusion of President Hoover's message. Senator McKellar demanded, through his resolution, that Mr. Hoover should submit to the Senate all papers and correspondence relative to the treaty.

Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania at once replied that he had copies of everything in this connection, and was willing to permit any Senator to examine them confidentially.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California sarcastically rejected this offer, demanding on behalf of the Senate the right to examine the documents without any pledge of secrecy.

Former Episode Recalled.

The entire controversy revives the episode in the Foreign Relations Committee, which called upon Colonel Stimson, head of the American Delegation to London, to give it all secret documents in connection with the negotiation of the treaty. Colonel Stimson declined, on instructions from the President, with the result that the Committee passed a resolution of complaint and gave it to Colonel Stimson in his capacity of Secretary of State.

HONG KONG - SWATOW TRADE.*REASONS FOR SUSPENSION OF SHIPMENTS.

(Wah Ts Yat Pao.)

In connection with the report that Chinese merchants in Hong Kong have lately received telegrams from Swatow advising not to send goods there for the time being, it is reported that the trouble originated from the oppressive and harsh action of the "Office for the Examination of Imported Agricultural Products" in Swatow in the examination of marine edible products and other sundry goods imported into Swatow.

The merchants there are not satisfied with the methods employed, and they protested and have advised merchants elsewhere not to ship goods there until the trouble is over.

COMMUNISM ON EAST RIVER.*TROOPS DESPATCHED TO SWATOW.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, July 13.

Communist activities are again reported to be rife in the East River districts in the vicinity of Swatow and Chui Mui, following the withdrawal of the Government troops under Colonel Chang Mui Sun for Canton some time ago.

When the outlaws under Chu Chak and Mo Chak Tung learned of this, they emerged from their mountain lairs and villages were captured and laid waste, and several large commercial centres, including Swatow, were threatened. Many of the merchants at Swatow became alarmed and sent telegrams to their agencies in Canton and Hong Kong cancelling their orders.

The Canton Higher Command has today ordered the regiment under Colonel Chang Mui Sun, attached to the 6th Division, to go back to Swatow to maintain peace. This regiment came to Canton some weeks ago under the order of General Chen Tsi T'ung, who wanted to dispatch it to Hunan to participate in the campaign against the "Ironsides" and their allies, but their defeat made it unnecessary for the last move.

BRITISH PLANES.*FOR FLIGHTS OVER CONGO JUNGLES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, July 11.

Six British air-liners of the latest type have been ordered by the Belgian Government for air lines in the Congo.

These machines, which are known as Westland Wessex, are triple-engined monoplanes driven by three major engines giving a total horsepower of 300.

Accommodation is provided for five passengers, a pilot and navigator, and the machines, with a full load, can fly with any one of their three engines stopped.

They are to be used over long tracts of jungle where a forced landing would be particularly unpleasant.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

It is officially learned from Hanchowfu that the Han Fu Chu vanguards have reached the vicinity of Mingshui, to the west of Chowsun, and are rapidly advancing towards Tsinan.

Eight Government aeroplanes are effectively bombing the enemy positions on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway front, where the Shansi troops are stated to have suffered a crushing defeat.

On the Peiping-Hankow Railway front, a twenty-four hour battle is said to have been fought on the 10th inst., in the vicinity of Hanchang, both sides sustaining heavy casualties.

The Government forces seized a large number of rifles, machine-guns and ammunition.

BOMBARDMENT OF KOFOW.

(Wah Ts Yat Pao.)

SHANGHAI, July 13.

The Shansi forces are besieging and bombarding Kofow, in Shantung, on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway.

Six to seven hundred shells have been fired into the city by the Shansi artillery.

According to an official report circulated by the Nanking Military Headquarters, the Shansi rebels have been defeated at Yenchow and Kofow and forced to fall back on Ningyang, with the Government forces in pursuit. The latter captured large numbers of the rebels and military supplies.

Very heavy casualties were sustained by the rebels. The Nanking troops have launched another counter-attack, and they have been instructed by Marshal Chiang Kai Shek to re-capture Tsinan as soon as possible.

PLEA OF THE JEWS.PROTEST BASED ON A MISUNDERSTANDING.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, July 11.

An important statement upon Jewish immigration in Palestine was made by Lord Passfield, Secretary of State for the Colonies to a deputation from the Board of Deputies of British Jews, which is an elected representative body of Jews of the British Empire.

The deputation, in expressing the views of the Board on the suspension of the 2,300 immigration certificates for Palestine granted on the labour schedule for the current year, said the Government's decision prejudiced the work of Jewish agency and seemed to indicate that the Government had made up its mind that Jewish immigration must be stopped.

The Government's policy had not created a loyal and contented population in Palestine, and repercussions were to be observed in the foreign relations of this country.

The Jews had for centuries suffered injustice at the hands of others, and they were the last to wish to see injustice inflicted on the Arabs.

The deputation begged the British Government to release certificates and to demonstrate its intention to administer Palestine in the spirit of the Mandate.

Lord Passfield Replies toDeputation.

In reply, Lord Passfield said that the protests of the Jews appeared to have been based on a misunderstanding. There had been no change in policy of the Government, and no uncertainty in its execution of the Mandate. The Mandate, however, did not envisage the establishment of a Jewish State, but only of a Jewish national home in Palestine consistently with the maintenance of the position and rights of the Arab population.

There must be a limit to Jewish immigration determined by the absorptive capacity of the country. There had been no stoppage of immigration and 890 certificates on the labour schedule for the present half-year had been sanctioned in advance and had not been suspended.

The Shaw Commission had reported that a certain number of Arabs had been economically prejudiced as a result of Jewish land purchases, although it was recognised that the Jewish Agency had paid liberal sums for the same.

The Government considered it necessary to enquire into the truth of the allegations, and with this object had secured the best possible expert to make enquiries. These were being pursued without delay, but no promise could be made as to the date on which a decision could be given.

LAWN BOWLS LEAGUE MATCHES.

LEADERS IN BOTH DIVISIONS STILL TOGETHER.

UNSUCCESSFUL EFFORTS BY TAIKOO SENIORS AND THE YACHT CLUB.

SECOND VICTORY FOR KOWLOON DOCK.

Civil Service and Craignower, joint-leaders in the senior division of the lawn bowls league, took the points again on Saturday to place other competitors behind. Civil Service took the points from the Bowling Green team by 15 shots after a close game up to ten time. The Police started well against the champions, but the latter pulled up to win by 17 shots. Kowloon Dock broke their spell of bad luck by defeating Club de Recreo, while Kowloon C.C. had their revenge on Taikoo by a margin of seven shots.

Bowling Green and Civil Service juniors both won this time, the former accounting for the Yacht Club by 14 shots. Civil Service had a comfortable victory at Craignower. The Electricians lost at Taikoo, and Kowloon C.C. took the points at Club de Recreo by a majority of four shots.

The defeat of Taikoo in the senior division and the Yacht Club in the junior has now removed the obstruction in the way of the two leading teams in each division, who are left to decide the issue between themselves.

WORLD SEARCH FOR RARE HERBS IN NEW HEALER

Wonderful herbal extracts from countries as far apart as Japan and Spain, East Indies and Tasmania, account for the unique properties of Zam-Buk, the great skin-cure and first-aid. These valuable herbs have to be gathered at a particular time when their juices are at their very best, and their manufacture into Zam-Buk is a costly and complicated process. Even the delicate green colour of Zam-Buk comes from Nature. No animal fats or coarse mineral drugs enter into this rare herbal balm which is accordingly so refined that it can enter thro' the tiny pores of the skin and reach the very seat of skin disease. Zam-Buk instantly soothes pain, allays inflammation, and with repeated dressings, all bad matter is drawn off and new skin made to grow. For cuts, bruises, scalds, burns and sprains it acts, like magic; while the worst cases of eczema, poisoned wounds, ulcers, bad legs, and piles yield to its marvellous curative power.

UNIVERSITY v. HONG KONG NOMADS.

A most exciting game was played on the University ground, Pokfulam, yesterday, and the Hong Kong Nomads did well to win by just a single run.

The undergraduates batted first and were given an excellent start by Rodrigues and Gani, while Donald Anderson played one of his usual stylish innings for 45. The rest of the team failed against the bowling of Shelly who got six wickets for 38 runs and "Mr. Extras" contributed a useful 28 to bring the total to 140.

Davies (21) and Patterson (33) started well for the Nomads, while Arculli got 27. The finish was most exciting for with the last man in, the visitors wanted nine runs to win. Immediately after they got the required runs, Skinner who played a sterling innings for 16, was run out, the game resulting in a one-run victory for the Nomads.

EASTERN NEWS IN BRIEF.

PARS FROM EVERYWHERE.

The National Government has issued an order for the arrest of a number of alleged counter-revolutionaries who are now taking refuge in foreign countries.

Six remedial measures in respect to the silver situation are reported by the Sun-Keung to have been decided upon by the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labour and will be enforced after being approved by the Administrative Yuan.

Alleging that sampans are too small to ensure the safety of passengers and that they are being frequently utilized by unscrupulous persons for smuggling prohibited goods, the Commissioner of Public Utilities for Greater Shanghai has announced that he will issue no more licenses to sampan-owners as from this month so that these vessels will gradually disappear from the Whangpoo River.

A Nanking telegram to the Sun-Keung says that a branch of the Tientsin Customs House has been established at Taku by order of Mr. Lenox Simpson, and that all vessels passing Taku are being subject to strict search by Mr. Simpson's subordinates so as to prevent untaxed goods from being smuggled to Tientsin.

Apologies of the recent ruling made by a judge of the Shanghai Special District Court that foreign firms which have not been registered with the Chinese Government will have no capacity to sue as plaintiffs in Chinese law courts, the National Government has issued an order to the Administrative Yuan to the effect that the registration of foreign firms in China will be sanctioned by the National Government on the condition that Chinese firms of a similar nature will be permitted to enjoy reciprocal treatment in the foreign countries.

Tokyo not only has the greatest city population, but also the densest population in Japan, according to vital statistics published by the Statistics Section of Tokyo City on the census taken on December 31, 1929. Tokyo's official population is announced as 2,370,256. Osaka's population last October was estimated at 2,400,000, but this is for Greater Osaka, which includes the suburban districts. Tokyo's population is estimated at over 4,200,000 when the suburban population is included, making Greater Tokyo's population the third greatest in the world, ranking next to Greater London and Greater New York, in the order named. Greater Berlin's population, according to the Daily Mail Year Book of 1930, is estimated unofficially at 4,000,000.

WARWICK v. NOTTS.

DEFEAT FOR NOTTS.

At Birmingham, Warwick beat Notts on the first innings. Santall scored 106 for the winners, while Kilner missed his century by three runs. Whysall was again prominent for Notts and scored 158.
